

Salute to Our Carriers

(Editorial)

The heavy snows and severe cold we have experienced this winter have meant extra work and considerable difficulties for many people—from home owners wearily wielding their shovels to postmen, deliverymen, truck drivers, policemen and firemen who have had to battle the elements simply to accomplish their normal tasks.

But we would like to pay special tribute to a group of businessmen to whom each storm, each cold snap presents a challenge to their hardihood and their determination to serve their customers. Of no small interest is the fact that the age of these businessmen generally runs from 12 to 16 years. We are speaking of the almost 500 young men who each day deliver the Post-Crescent to subscribers' homes throughout east central Wisconsin.

It is not easy for a youngster newly initiated into the duties and hazards of running a business to set out on foot or bicycle through a blinding snowstorm to deliver anywhere from 30 to 100 papers, placing each one carefully behind a storm door or some other sheltered place so the community's citizens can enjoy their newspaper in the warmth and comfort of their living rooms. Those who despair of the stamina, both physical and otherwise of the younger generation of Americans should follow a typical Post-Crescent carrier boy on his daily rounds during these blustering winter days.

Recognition also is due the parents of these boys. It is not easy for Mom and Dad to see their son so recently emerged from childhood walking or bicycling off as skies darken and the wind whips snow into his eyes laden with his quota of papers and often several miles of route before him. Many of these parents, when the weather is especially bad, take their own time to drive their sons around their routes—often after having to shovel a path before they can drive the car into the street.

And finally we appeal to all who drive automobiles or trucks to keep a special eye out for newspaper delivery boys during these days of high snowbanks and limited visibility. Most of them are wearing the reflector belts we have provided them for their safety, yet no belt will really protect a boy from the careless or negligent driver. As you read your Post-Crescent tonight, remember that some young man with a lot of guts and ambition brought it to your doorstep and resolve to give him and his fellows a break on the snow and ice covered streets.

Glenn Makes Triumphant Return to Cape Canaveral

Appearance Brings Cheers From Throngs

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Three days and 12 minutes later John H. Glenn, Jr., returned to the missile base center which rocketed him into history.

Entering the south gate of the base at the head of a motorcade and accompanied by his wife and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, Glenn performed the most useless gesture of the day. Smilingly he displayed his identification card to the guard at the gate. No one looked at the card. Everyone looked only at Glenn.

Triumphant Procession

The motorcade carrying Glenn in triumphant procession from airport to space port took about an hour for the trip. In that time on Tuesday he had orbited two thirds way around the world.

Heading a 17-car procession over an 18-mile route, the astronaut was cheered on by thousands waving arms, waving flags, brandishing signs and cameras.

Glenn sat on top of the back seat of a white open convertible waving with his left arm, holding his wife with his right arm. Vice President Johnson manned the right side of the car.

They rode by high school bands playing the Marine Corps hymn, past signs welcoming him back to his second home and on several occasions were stopped as the crowd closed in.

At one point it was the vice president who hailed the procession when he spotted a small boy about 2 sitting on his father's shoulders and wearing a toy space suit.

Nelson to Seek Senate Position

MADISON (AP)—Gov. Gaylord Nelson has decided to bid for the U. S. Senate seat now held by Republican Sen. Alexander Wiley. The Associated Press learned today.

During a trip to Washington last week the AP learned from reliable sources Nelson not only received assurances of support for his campaign against Wiley, but was given to understand that in event of a defeat in the race a federal appointment still would be available.

JFK Presents Astronaut With Distinguished Service Award During Ceremonies

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—President John F. Kennedy gave Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. a medal today for his historic flight around the world and said for the nation "We appreciate it."

It was a simple but dramatic ceremony before Hangar "S," the area where the 40-year-old Marine lieutenant colonel lived and trained for his flight Tuesday three times around the world in four hours and 56 minutes.

Afterwards, Glenn and the President stood before the museum-bound space capsule, Friendship 7, and Glenn told Kennedy of his flight, especially the re-entry phase.

For Glenn it was an emotion-packed day, one which saw him wipe at his eyes with a handkerchief when he was reunited with his wife, children, parents and in-laws.

In presenting Glenn the Distinguished Service Medal of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Kennedy said 17 years ago the Marines planted the American flag on Mt. Suribachi. Two years and 17 months later, he said, the flag was planted on the moon.

The President presented the medal to Glenn for his courage and outstanding contribution to the nation's knowledge.

He gave a similar medal to Robert R. Gilchrist, director of the agency, and to the crew of the capsule, which could say little more than "very proud."

In replying to the President's presentation, Glenn looked first at the standing and applauding audience. With a grin of seeming embarrassment he asked, "Sit down, please."

Then the tanned and fit-looking astronaut said, "I can't express my appreciation."

"Figurehead," he said. "Once more he said the whole mission was the end result of a team effort and added, 'I was a sort of figurehead for the whole effort.'"

In introducing Glenn, the President called the astronaut's wife and children to stand beside the space hero, then he pointed at Glenn's mother and introduced her as Mrs. Glenn who launched Col. Glenn on his flight.

Kennedy came here from Palm Beach, Fla., where he and Mrs. Kennedy and their children are staying for the weekend at the home of a friend.

Tough Khrushchev Note Chills Negotiation Hopes

Russian Leader Insists JFK Agree to Summit Conference

BY JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tough new message from Premier Khrushchev insisting that President Kennedy agree to a March summit meeting chilled U.S. hopes today for any kind of successful negotiations with the Soviet Union at the forthcoming Geneva conference.

The letter delivered to the State Department Thursday also raised grave suspicion among officials here that Khrushchev is trying to use the approaching disarmament conference as a device to prevent Kennedy from ordering a new series of atmospheric nuclear tests. Officials judged the 20-page message to be loaded with propaganda.

The State Department forwarded an English translation of the letter to the White House late Thursday afternoon, a little more than two hours after Kennedy left for Florida. Presumably his special assistant McGeorge Bundy relayed it to the President immediately.

The United States planned to start immediate consultation with Britain and other Allies on a Kennedy reply to Khrushchev, turning down his latest summit conference bid. But the State Department informally rejected Khrushchev's insistence on a summit.

The statement said the U.S. government feels that its proposal to open disarmament talks with foreign ministers, with the possibility of a summit session later on, is the proper one and the one best designed to lead to orderly negotiations.

JFK Attitude Grieves Nikita

Claims Kennedy Negative Toward Disarmament Talks

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev says President Kennedy's refusal to start the Geneva disarmament talks at summit level next month must mean he is not ready to negotiate agreement.

In a note to Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan of Britain made public today by the Soviet news agency Tass, the Soviet premier declared he was grieved at the negative attitude.

The Soviet leader's communication was received Thursday in Washington and London.

Kennedy and Macmillan prefer to have the Geneva discussions begin at foreign ministers' level. They have suggested a readiness to go to the summit later if some progress is made at a lower level.

Tass quoted Khrushchev as expressing hope that the President and Macmillan have not yet said their last word concerning participation in the discussions of the 18-nation committee.

The disarmament conference sponsored by the United Nations is to be made up of representatives from five Western nations, five Communist nations and eight so-called nonaligned nations.

Rusk Reaffirms Stand on Berlin

Calls Reunification Of Divided Germany The 'Real Solution'

DAVIDSON, N.C. (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk voiced again Thursday night the West's determination to defend the freedom of West Berlin, and said reunification of Germany is the only real solution to the divided nation's problems.

Rusk wound up a two-day visit to North Carolina with an address at Davidson College where he was graduated a Phi Beta Kappa in 1931. He spent all of Thursday visiting and speaking at the Presbyterian-affiliated college. On Wednesday night he spoke to the Chamber of Commerce at nearby Charlotte.

The secretary declared that in Berlin "we face the most direct and fundamental Soviet challenge to the position of the United States and indeed of the entire Free World."

"The Western Allies backed by all the NATO powers have the most solemn obligation to protect the freedom of the West Berliners," he said. "This is a duty to ourselves as well and to our own security for the freedom of West Berlin is the key to the freedom of us all."

Tshombe Accused Of Planning Military Move

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The United Nations accused President Moise Tshombe today of preparing for a new military showdown with its force. It expressed doubt about the Katanga president's good faith in seeking a peaceful settlement with the rest of the Congo.

In sharp departure from a recent atmosphere of conciliation and confidence concerning Katanga, the United Nations said Tshombe's military action in north Katanga violates conditions laid down by the United Nations.

Labrador Smokes, Boy Parrot Lays Egg

Some English Animal Tales Are Real 'Lulus'

BY WILLIAM H. STONEMAN

CHICAGO Daily News Service

LONDON—This is a small story season here and the British newspapers have come up with some lulus.

The Daily Mirror tells the story of Butch, a 6-year-old Labrador who loves to smoke cigarettes.

According to the Mirror, two pub proprietors in Doncaster have told Butch's master, Ralph Spencer, that they cannot allow Butch to smoke in their pubs in the future.

Drop a Lighted Butch Butch has a bad habit of burning customer's legs with lighted cigarettes and dropping lighted butts on the floor.

Spencer understands the situation. I sympathize with the landlords and their ban can be a good thing for Butch, he said. "Butch has been smoking too much and has a bit of a cough."

The Daily Mirror also produced the story of a pet parrot named Charlie who spent 10 years amusing his master by wolf whistling at other birds and saying "coo-coo" to lady passersby. Then Charlie started clucking and his master, William Wainwright of Epping, looked into the cage and found Charlie had laid two eggs. Charlie's name has now been changed to Charlotte.

More Pungent

Far more pungent and not at all funny was the story printed in the Daily Express about a six-year-old Golden Retriever named Simon who served as guide dog to John Thomas, a blind telephone operator living in the London borough of Wandsworth.

When Simon showed signs of being overly cautious about crossing streets with his master, officials of the Guide Dogs Association examined him and found that he was almost blind himself.

The story ended happily when veterinary surgeon Denis Healey restored the sight of one eye by a cornea transplant operation. Now Simon is back at work with one good eye.

Weightlessness Was 'Pleasant,' Glenn Relates

Astronaut Tells Newsmen That He Had No Ill Effects

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. reported today that he suffered no ill effects from prolonged weightlessness during his space journey on the day. In fact, "It was very pleasant," he said.

"I had no trouble at all reaching the capsule or controlling the capsule in zero gravity (weightlessness)," the astronaut told a jammed news conference after a triumphant return to Cape Canaveral.

Enthusiastically discussing his historic flight, Glenn said he adapted quite early to the weightless sensation, which he was in for most of his 4-hour, 55-minute journey.

Camera 'Floats'

As an example, he said about 6 or 45 minutes after launching he was taking pictures with a hand camera and wanted to do some switch work.

"I simply put the camera out and let it float in mid air," he said. "The astronaut said, 'I did the switch work and then went back to the camera.'"

Glenn was still looking fit after a morning of strenuous ceremonies, including a parade cheered by 100,000 persons and presentation of a medal by President Kennedy when he stepped to the platform to begin the news conference.

The conference took place before several hundred newsmen in a circus tent set up at the Cape Canaveral press site where reporters covered the flight Tuesday. The site is about 1 1/2 miles from Launch Pad 14, whence Glenn started his lonely orbit.

The only persons beside Glenn on the platform were James E. Webb, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Robert R. Gilchrist, Project Mercury director.

The conference started at 12:34 p.m. (CST).

"I don't know what you say about a day when you see so many beautiful sunsets," Glenn said.

All told, he said he witnessed four sunsets. Three he saw in his three orbits around the Earth and one from the destroyer which picked him up out of the Atlantic Ocean.

Premier Inonu Gets Firm Support From Armed Services

The premier 78 signaled that the bloodless revolt had been ended when he went on the air with a brief pre-dawn announcement that his government was in command.

Reliable army sources said authorities have seized ring-leaders of the brief revolt touched off by discontent over slow progress in carrying out reforms in land allocation, taxes, education and agriculture.

Challenge to Parents: Fan Your Child's Interest

BY LESLIE J. NASON, D. ED.
Professor of Education,
University of Southern California

Our grandparents had a pertinent saying: "The Lord pays thread to the web begun." It means once you start a web, the threads gravitate to it.

It certainly is so with learning. If we learn enough about a new subject, additional information about it pops up from every side. And when it doesn't pop up, we are interested enough to go after it.

Knowledge forms interest centers in the brain. Ideas fit together to form patterns of thought. Thinking becomes a pleasure and makes more complete patterns.

New ideas are absorbed into the patterns through the process of thought. "Let me think about it awhile," we say when we are confronted with a new idea. We need time to see if the new idea fits into any of our patterns.

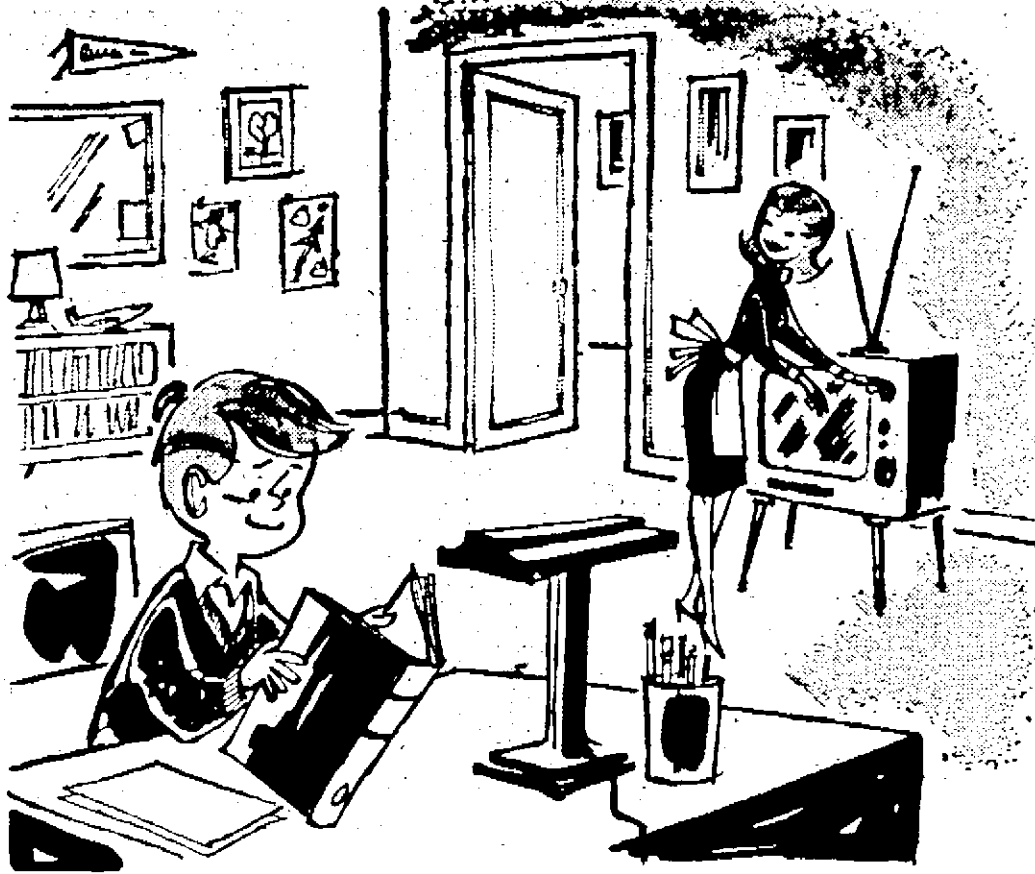

Subject a Pleasure
Real centers of interest are formed by this kind of thinking.

It is not the fact that we have information about a subject, but the fact that the web or pattern is becoming established in our minds that makes thinking about this subject a pleasure.

The more we know, the more we want to know. The larger and more varied our centers of knowledge, the larger and more varied the areas for adding further knowledge.

When your child puts ideas into his own words, he is "thinking" them into patterns of thought. Listen to him: Let him tell you his ideas. When you listen helpfully and expectantly you help him assimilate ideas.

Help your child enlarge interest areas with correct answers and the new information he needs to complete his thought patterns. As his pattern of knowledge grows, he absorbs information faster and more successfully.

If a student makes himself pay attention to a subject such as biology or mathematics until he knows a lot about it, an interest center forms in his mind. Then the more he learns about it, the more interesting the subject becomes.

Parents can help their children become interested in school subjects.

Encourage Student

If a boy shows no interest in history, encourage him to make a real effort to learn a lot about history — even more than the teacher assigns for a few days. As his knowledge of history grows it will take less effort for him to turn his mind to it. In this way he can "force" himself to gain a real interest in almost any subject.

The task and the challenge of parents is to fan interest, but not to blow it out. Too much information obtained with too little thinking can lead to rejection rather than interest.

A teacher I know was delighted when a heretofore listless, disinterested youngster in her class expressed some interest in pen-guins.

"Wonderful," she rejoiced. Straightaway she went to the school library and brought back an armload of books about pen-guins. The boy opened the first book, leafed through it and laid it down. Ditto, the second. Then he turned away.

"I thought you said you were interested in penguins," she said. "I did," he admitted, "but there's a whole lot more here than I want to know about pen-guins."

Beware of "too-much-about-penguins" procedures. Our role as parents and teachers is to lead, not force. If the youngsters themselves are willing to make that first effort, interest will follow.

MONDAY: Encourage your child's special talents.

281 Inch Record
Snow Capital Reports 'Only' 32 Inches Now

HOUGHTON, Mich. (AP)—Snow is only a piddlin' 32 inches deep, and only snow flurries were forecast in this Upper Michigan college town that lays claim to "snow capital of the Midwest."

Tuesday wasn't much of a snow day, either. Somewhere between half an inch and an inch fell, lifting the season's fall to 13 feet, 1 inch.

Back in the 1949-50 season it really snowed—25 feet, 5 inches worth. That set a record for this copper-mining country on the Keweenaw Peninsula that juts into Lake Superior from Upper Michigan.

Keeps Snowing
The season's first snow usually can be expected around Nov. 18, and it has snowed as late as May 3.

Heart Drive Starts Sunday
Area Chairmen Get Final Instructions From Fund Leader

Final instructions were given to Heart Sunday drive chairmen this week at the Lawrence Music-Drama Center. Mrs. Edwin E. Uehlein, 903 E. College Ave., is chairman for Heart Sunday, which will be this Sunday.

Dr. Thomas M. Loescher, physician's chairman for the Heart Fund drive, introduced Mark Kaufman, 6, to the group and described the youngster's heart surgery to them. Mark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Kaufman, 119 E. Harrison St., had open heart surgery in 1960 at Wisconsin General Hospital, Madison, to close an opening between the two sides of his heart.

Could Cause Death
The condition would probably have caused death, Dr. Loescher said, but now the boy's heart is completely normal.

Mrs. Uehlein will be assisted by six district area chairmen, 50 district captains and 750 block workers for the Heart Sunday drive.

District area chairmen are Mrs. Fred Herbolzheimer, 1531 S. Lehmann Lane; Mrs. Richard Allen, 273 River Drive; Mrs. Donald Genge, 415 E. Circle St.; Mrs. Robert Johnson, 119 S. Meade St.; Mrs. Charles Henderson, 711 E. John St.; and Mrs. Joseph Weissler, 844 E. Alton St.

low, and some farm families still warm beds for the children by placing between the sheets sticks of wood or bricks heated in the oven.

Authorities are keeping a special vigil against roadside snow caves dug by children. They are afraid passing snow plows might collapse them on the little fellows.

Snows, especially when driven into road-plugging drifts, have forced school closings. But so far this winter schools have been closed only five days, and the record for a season is only 16 days.

Urban Affairs May Still be Set Up in U. S.

Kennedy Cites That Big Majority of People are in Cities

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Despite the fact that the House of Representatives overwhelmingly defeated the Administration's latest reorganization plan, President Kennedy predicts that the establishment of a Department of Urban Affairs, which he unsuccessfully advocated, is an inevitable development.

Lawrence

But the President, unhappily, has not analyzed the real reason for the setback. It wasn't personal. It wasn't based, as he suggests, on opposition from rural areas to giving aid to cities.

It wasn't motivated by the ill-advised interjection of a racial issue in the announcement that Robert C. Weaver, a Negro, would be appointed to head the new department. The refusal of Congress to go along was due primarily to a deep-seated revolt against the concept of a centralized government which could conceivably convert the White House into the most powerful political machine this country has ever known.

For if a Department of Urban Affairs is needed to work with municipal governments, it is just as logical to ask for the creation of two other departments — one covering all relations between the federal government and state governments, and another to embrace all relations with county governments. Likewise, it can be argued that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has this department today delegates too broad a scope, and that it should be separated into two departments, so that one can specialize in education.

Backs Mustake

But the basic mistake is in the concept that new departments are needed for urban affairs, just because city problems have increased. Fundamentally — if the Federal Government is to maintain the constitutional principle of state, city and county systems, as separated from the federal system — what is desirable is not several new departments, but one department that specializes in the disbursement of federal funds and the making of contracts with the states, counties and cities.

Also, if the argument that the federal government doesn't intend to control the educational process of the states — when federal funds are furnished to them — is accepted as sincere, then all that is needed is a good business organization to see that federal funds are matched by the states, and that the money is spent for the purposes set forth in the law.

No Weaver

While Robert Weaver might be a good man for a cabinet post, some day, it would have been much better if the President had turned to the business or financial world and had selected another Robert McNamara to head up the very Department of Urban Affairs, which he espoused. For it is not a knowledge of city politics that is so much needed as a familiarity with large business and financial transactions.

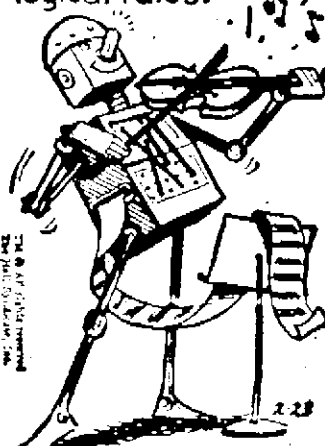

Billions of dollars of the taxpayers' money are involved in all these plans for new departments. Thus, the billions that are spent by the federal government in cooperation with the states for highways are in the hands of the Bureau of Public Roads inside the U.S. Department of Commerce. It could logically be argued that a U.S. department of relations with the states would more properly supervise the work done by the Bureau of Public Roads and other agencies of the federal government that deal with the states.

Counties have too long been regarded as "distressed areas" through the area redevelopment governments. Likewise, it can be argued that the Department of U.S. Department of Commerce, Health, Education and Welfare has this department today delegates some of the activities of the area redevelopment administration to at least five other departments or agencies of the federal government.

The fallacy in the approach heretofore to the problems of administrative reform and reorganization is that broad subjects — agriculture, labor and commerce — have been confused with simple tasks which are designed to make sure that federal funds are spent for the objectives stipulated in the appropriation laws passed by Congress.

The federal government is growing as population grows. A new while the fundamental structure of the government here can be improved and modernized, the basic principles laid down in the Constitution are still valid — namely, that self-rule must be maintained, as well as a reliance on the states and cities and counties to exercise full responsibility for their own systems of government.

What is needed in government today is decentralization instead of more centralization. The states and cities are not all equal in financial capacity, and some federal aid becomes essential. The doctrine, however, that the federal government shall extract from taxpayers in New York State, for example, money to pay for the projects of the State of Illinois, which has the resources to finance its own needs, cannot be persuasively defended. The President the other day in his press conference said that 80 per cent of the American people now live in cities, and offered this as a justification for supervision of urban affairs by a department of the federal government. But this might readily lead to an abandonment of self-rule and a concentration of political power in the executive branch of the federal government — a formula that could make the White House in the future a bigger source of political power and boss rule than a dozen Tammany Halls combined.

GOP, Southerners Scuttle City Bill

BY JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—His own Democrats wrecked any chance for President Kennedy to make a political issue out of the ruin of his plan for a new department of urban affairs and housing.

The far-outnumbered Republicans in the House were against the bill but helpless to stop it without Democratic help. They got it in abundance, particularly from Southern Democrats.

This doesn't leave Kennedy room for telling city voters in this year's congressional elections that the Republicans did him in. The press, under his reorganization most he can say is that he was much.

GOP Opposed
The Republicans' opposition was based on the argument that a new department would only make the government that much bigger, and since it would be concerned with cities, it would interfere with the rights of states to be concerned with cities.

It became clear that the bulk of Southern Democrats would oppose the measure after Kennedy announced that he would appoint Robert C. Weaver, a Negro, to his Cabinet to head the new agency if the department were created.

Right now the various government agencies dealing with housing are grouped under one main unit, the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

Weaver is head of that. But neither he and the HHFA lacked the prestige and influence which go along with a department. The idea for creating such a department has been bouncing around for years.

Last Year
It has been examined inside and out by congressional committees. Kennedy recommended it last year in a message to Congress. In effect, he has said the problem of cities and their people are so big they need a department.

He backed a bill to set it up. But the bill never got out of Senate and House committees to the floor of either house for a vote. The whole business began moving toward a fast climax last Jan. 24.

Two things happened that day:

The Legislature's Housekeeping

Governors of Wisconsin have infrequently interfered in the internal management of the legislative branch of the state government. There is a keen awareness of the separation of powers principle. The legislature for the most part attends to its own housekeeping.

We must conclude, therefore, that Gov. Nelson may have hesitated to disapprove the bill passed by the legislators late in their final meeting in January that proposed to authorize the employment of six private secretaries for six of the legislature's leaders—during the period that the legislature is not in session.

But we believe that the governor acted correctly. As he pointed out, perhaps ironically, it is difficult to believe that a legislative official can have enough Madison secretarial work to keep an assistant profitably employed when she is at the state capitol and he is in his distant home city selling hardware, or practicing law, or whatever. This was political patronage, and of the most dubious sort. In a time when there is an increasing desire for more efficient and economical operation of public affairs, the governor probably echoed the public attitude in his curt veto message.

The legislature's work and responsibility has broadened, indeed, in recent decades—when it is in session.

The legislature indubitably needs more staff assistance to equip it for the multifarious and complex problems that are submitted to it—when it is in session.

There would be considerable backing for the refashioning of legislative staff services, we believe, that would permit more reliable and expeditious handling of legislative duties—when the houses are actually in Madison.

But our present legislature doesn't seem to be able to fashion such improvements in its housekeeping. Instead, it has seemed unable to resist the temptation to load its payroll with favorites when there is no conceivable justification for it. The governor was right, whatever his action may have implied in executive intervention in legislative affairs.

Federated Fund Raising in Health Field

Now that most service organizations are united for fund raising purposes under the United Community Services, it is time the community turn its attention to the multiplicity of fund appeals by the various health agencies.

The possibility of forming a community health foundation as a member agency was discussed at the recent annual meeting of the Green Bay Community Chest.

As envisaged, such a foundation would have three main functions: (1) the planning, coordination and furnishing of direct services in the community to all victims of physical and mental disabilities based on need; (2) the allocation of funds raised in the community to medical research; and (3) conducting a comprehensive educational program, not solely for the purposes of fund raising, but to keep the community up-to-date on progress in both public and personal health matters.

It already is obvious that duplication of facilities and services are developing under the present situation where each of the various health agencies deals generally with only one specific area of human ailments. As an example, one community center for the rehabilitation of the afflicted makes more sense than a number of separate rehabilitation centers for victims of particular diseases.

On a national scale, the United Health Foundation, in alliance with the Medical Research Program, is allocating progressively more sizable sums for medical research. Many Community Chests and United Funds in the country now are contributing to these organizations, as well as foundations and industries. For the most part this is basic medical research.

The decision to enter upon such a program lies with the individual donors. No fund organization or federated group should presume to dictate to the individual how he may dispose of the funds he wishes to earmark for community service.

On the other hand, community leadership has the responsibility to see that such funds are spent efficiently, and the time may well be here when such a concept of community health service should be offered to the public for its reaction.

The Squeeze Is on Cuba

Cuba's representatives in international organizations are having a rough time.

The expulsion of Cuba from the Organization of American States apparently has impressed even some of the Latin American countries which voted against the majority resolution. Argentina is being forced to slap more stringent economic sanctions against Cuba because a vocal portion of its population disagreed with Argentina's reluctance to criticize Castro's regime. Mexico's representatives have hastened to insist that the reason they voted against expulsion was their antipathy to intervention rather than any affection for Castro. They point out they did vote a condemnation of Cuba's present regime and its threat to the Western Hemisphere.

In the United Nations, the efforts of the Cuban delegation to brand the United States as an aggressor because of our action in the O.A.S. and the tightening of our own trade with Cuba has hardly roused a ripple of interest. The Communist world difficultly acknowledged it and two satellites introduced a resolution. But there was no encouragement from any of the "neutral" nations. Even Soviet Russia merely paid it lip service. And it gave U. S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson the opportunity to blast Castro a little more as a betrayer of his people.

All of this does not mean that the Cuban people will rise up and toss Castro into the Bay of Pigs. In fact, he is more likely to be dispensed with by the hard core professional Communists who are taking a firmer and firmer grip upon the Cuban government and eventually will not need Fidel as a figurehead.

But the recent disapproval of Cuba may serve as a lesson to many of our Latin American neighbors with strong elements of the Communist Party at work within their borders. A few more of the thinking population may take a deeper look at the Communist promises to see the talons underneath.

Switzerland of Africa

Tribal Rivalries Plague Another New Nation-to-be

WASHINGTON — Ruanda-Urundi could become "another Congo," according to gloomy reports from Belgium's United Nations Trust Territory in the heart of Africa.

With independence scheduled for 1962, outbreaks between Watutsi and Bahutu tribesmen have erupted periodically in the last two years. Marauding bands, mostly Bahutu, have recently roamed the Ruanda countryside, burning huts and forcing villagers to flee for their lives.

Though tribal conflict is less acute in Ruanda, the territory's southern half, its premier was assassinated in October.

Double State May Split

The two-in-one state is expected to split peacefully when the Belgians withdraw. Ruanda already has elected to be a republic, having deposed its king, or mwami. Urundi so far retains the old monarchy. But neither is endowed with natural wealth, and both face a common African problem — the disruption of deep-rooted tribal relationships.

In many ways, Ruanda-Urundi has its own special needs and background, says the National Geographic Society. Landlocked, mountainous, and arid, it is called the Switzerland of Africa. It covers about half the area of Ohio, and less than one fortieth that of the sprawling Congo, with which it was formerly linked for administrative and economic purposes.

Ethnically, Ruanda-Urundi is closer to East Africa than to its western neighbor, the Congo. Communications, too, flow more naturally eastward to the Indian Ocean by way of Uganda, Kenya, or Tanganyika, than by the Congo's rivers and jungles to the Atlantic.

Like Three Bears

The story of Ruanda-Urundi is basically the story of three tribes. These — like the three Bears — are the remarkably tall Watutsi, the medium-sized Bahutu, and the little Batwa, about 4½ feet high.

The prologue was written three or four centuries ago when slim, towering Watutsi tribesmen wandered southward, perhaps from Ethiopia. Driving herds of lyre-horned cattle, they settled along the hillsides south of the Mountains of the Moon. To Bahutu inhabitants laboring in the fields, the six-to-seven-foot giants seemed indeed to be gods, as they claimed.

Cattle Also Sacred

Conquest was easy. The Watutsi professed to rule by divine right. Even their cattle were sacred. Bahutu could obtain cows for use but were forbidden to own them. Thus they gradually became vassals in a rigid feudal state.

The forest-roving Batwa minority were slaves of another sort. Some served as court jesters. They contributed poison-tipped darts to the feudal culture — darts still called on by the hard-pressed Watutsi during recent disturbances.

The tribes' modern history opened in the mid-19th century, as European explorers penetrated inner Africa in search of the source of the Nile, the Geographic points out. Germany made Ruanda and Urundi part of its East African empire in the late 1890's. The Belgians took over in World War I, and continued to rule after World War II under U. N. trusteeship.

Land Overcrowded

Today, as tides of nationalism reach Ruanda-Urundi, inner tension grows under pressure of social and economic changes. Belgian health measures have helped increase population to nearly five million in a land already overcrowded and overgrazed by pampered, low-grade cattle.

Schools and democratic reform have nourished the spirit of revolt among the Bahutu, who far outnumber the Watutsi. When the downtrodden tribesmen realized their power, the reaction was sometimes brutal. In one uprising it was reported that while the Bahutu spared Watutsi women and children, they literally cut the former "gods" down to size by chopping off their feet.

Washington Feels Khrushchev Must Earn Summit Meeting

BY PETER LISAGOR
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — The odor of summery was in the air last week.

With a little imagination, one could almost see Nikita Khrushchev standing on the frosty pinnacle beckoning Western leaders to join him with an olive branch in one hand and what looked suspiciously like a multi-megaton bomb in the other.

For those with long memories, it was a familiar situation, with the same innocuous undertones heard in the past when the Soviet premier has gone on the summit kick.

Should Be A Reward

The Washington attitude now, like that of the past, is that Khrushchev should earn his ticket on the limbo — that a summit law should be a reward for good behavior, not a haphazard ploy arranged on impulse.

There was, however, a new element in the current diplomatic exchange on the value or folly of a summit conference. Both in London and here, officials conjectured that Khrushchev, on the verge of great new decisions about the future course of Soviet policy, may need a little Western understanding, if not cooperation.

The basis of this conjecture is that Khrushchev seems to want to co-exist peacefully, to find a modus vivendi with the West. He needs some encouragement among hidden enemies, especially in Peiping, the reasoning goes, then it costs the West nothing to play along for a while until more is definitely known about the agonizing reappraisal reportedly going on in the Kremlin.

Leave Door Open

Accordingly, President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan spurred Khrushchev's proposal for a convocation of government heads on March 14 in Geneva, when the latest round of disarmament negotiations is scheduled to begin. But they carefully left open the possibility of a later summit if things go well at Geneva.

This gives Khrushchev the opportunity to say, in effect, to his hard-nosed colleagues, "see, what did I tell you — my policy is working. We can do business with the capitalists. They'll come to the summit, don't you worry."

It isn't a question of suddenly viewing Khrushchev as a saint. It is more a case, as one diplomat put it, of preferring a devil you know to one that you don't know.

So some demagogues — or Soviet experts — figured it last week.

There was an immediately discernible flaw in their calculations, however. Khrushchev's polite clamor for a summit on disarmament had an ugly counterpart in Berlin, Laos and South Viet Nam.

Buzz Allied Planes

Soviet MIG fighter planes were buzzing allied military aircraft in the Berlin corridor, threatening an explosive incident. The United States, Britain and France were compelled on Thursday to line off a stiff protest against this harassment.

The Communist rebels in Laos were working over Nam Tha, a vital government stronghold near the Chinese border. Khrushchev apparently was too busy working on a summit conference to give much notice to this violation of the cease-fire which his agents had helped to arrange.

And in South Viet Nam, the Communist Viet Cong rebels were unrestrained by the alleged thaw in East-West relations.

President Kennedy seemed to be playing the game with his usual coolness and restraint. He has pending a decision on the resumption of nuclear tests in the atmosphere. If his decision is to go ahead, Khrushchev will rant and shriek "Foul," but he will recognize the rules his side made up. And maybe then he'll go to a summit intent upon doing some serious business.

When winter approached, Taylor bought an electric pad for the dog. Electricity is run by extension cord through a bedroom window to the seat of the vehicle.

Avalanche of Snow Falls an Elderly Man

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Why do snowplow drivers have to be such irresponsible jackies? We live in the country and just today we got another example of their courteous driving. My elderly neighbor was shoveling the end of his driveway. He had been at it about two hours when along comes the monster, not only filling in his driveway but knocking him to the ground with the avalanche of snow.

The last time they plowed our road they knocked down four mail boxes in a row. I think this is a little uncalled for. We don't like all this snow any more then they do but they don't have to take it out on us.

I suppose this doesn't apply to all drivers but the ones it does I hope will be a little more considerate.

Employee Increase Reason for Tax Hike

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The number of persons working in the state government's expanding roster of services evidently continues to have some popular interest. Currently the Republican state headquarters publicity men are putting out figures intended to show that the Democratic state administration's payrolls are rising at a more rapid rate than those of preceding Republican administrations. Not so, says the Democratic administration in a reply. The rate of increase has been about the same, quite without regard to who holds power on the employment end and who is making the spending decisions.

It may be that the percentages, measured down to decimals, are not so important or noteworthy here as the fact of the rapidly, perhaps inexorably, growing size of government as an employer.

Would the average Wisconsin citizen be able to guess, within a reasonable range, how many persons now are employed in the multitude of state departments, institutions and services? Probably not. For the total is surprisingly big. Currently it is running about 23,000 men and women, not including part-time help which probably accounts for the equivalent of a few thousands of extra full-time payroll places.

BIG OPERATION

The other relevant figures on state employment are correspondingly impressive, perhaps even shocking to the taxpayer of conservative inclinations.

The total of state workers has just about doubled in the last 15 years, for example. But the total payroll, in dollars disbursed per month has approximately quadrupled. Inflation has been more potent on the wage expansion side than on the employment growth side. The state services now are accounting for about $12,000,000 a month in wages and salaries, which is probably as large as that of any employer within Wisconsin.

Yet there may be an element of unfairness in the emphasis upon state employment. Such comparisons are easily available, in a state capitol where the press is attentive and where officials are accustomed to reporting such material as a result.

It is important to realize that the phenomenon of huge public service employment is not confined to the state government and that, indeed, the state is relatively modest as an employer when the total of governmental service hiring is taken into account.

The state industrial commission for years has counted "government" as a major category in the state. Its labor market bulletin explains why. The most recent edition showed the category as having nearly 170,000 employees, which is far greater than that of most of the other groupings that the average citizen would assume to be basic.

The comparisons are not readily at hand, but it is a fair assumption that the aggregate of local government employment, and of hiring in the federal services during the recent years of rapidly expanding national government programs, has been greater than that of the state.

Moreover, there is no sign anywhere that the process is going to be halted. Indeed, there is reason to believe that the comparative rise in the national government employment especially, and in the local governments secondarily, will be greater in the years ahead than in the state government.

These are the visible and tangible symptoms of the changing times, and the apparently ineradicable disposition of the American people to want more in governmental services and benefits than their fathers and grandfathers had, or felt they needed.

It is also an ineradicable characteristic of the people to complain loudly about the price that is exacted in rising tax bills.

Let's Unwrap Our Files on China Case

From The New York Times

It is time to take the wraps off State Department records of our relations with China during the controversial period from 1942 to 1949, the period that encompasses the Communist take-over of the China Mainland. Contrary to normal procedure, the department has not made public its files for this period.

Failure to do so is attributed to concern over objections from the Chinese Nationalist government and to military security considerations. The sensitivity of some Americans involved in China policy at the time and the anxiety about rekindling old political issues in this country are doubtless other reasons why the files are still closed.

None of these considerations really seem compelling at this late date. A complete record of events so long past would clear up many matters and provide the basis for a sound evaluation of American actions at the time. The American people need the fullest information on this period in order to arrive at the right conclusions about a China problem that is still with us and will be for a long time.

Looking Backward

Indian Slaughter in Arizona

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for March 1, 1962.

Advances from Fort Craig, New Mexico, have just been received in Washington. They state that two families, Wadsworth and Akim, original settlers, have just come from Arizona. They state that Apache Indians have completely run over Arizona and either killed or caused to flee every white person in the territory west of the Rio Grande.

These families are all that have escaped from the interior. They state that many victims of the merciless Apaches were lying at different points in the territory and by the roadside, and upon the bodies of which the wolves were feasting.

Tucson, the principal town, was destroyed. The few inhabitants caught there had been killed and everything perishable by fire fell a prey to the flames.

25 YEARS AGO

Friday, February 19, 1937

Gov. Philip La Follette acted to clear the way for a reorganization of state departments by asking the legislature to name a special joint committee to work with him on legislation to that end. The governor had for some time been considering a "cabinet" system of state government.

Paul V. McNutt, former governor of Indiana and one-time national commander of the American Legion, was nominated for the post of American commissioner to the Philippines.

Mrs. Adam Limpert was elected chairman of the Social Welfare Circle of St. John Evangelical Reformed Church, succeeding Mrs. Peter Baer.

Space bulletin: President Kennedy's Glen Ora estate in Virginia will be renamed Glenn Orbit.

Moscow will fire 100 Communist agents in America. They monitored John Glenn's space flight on TV, but couldn't persuade him to report seeing a single collective farm.

Another New Frontier first: Bobby Kennedy got in more trouble in one circuit of the globe than John Glenn did in three.

Busiest man during America's first orbital flight was that fellow Roger. Old Roger did so much yakking on the party line, Cmdr. Shepard could hardly get him off to talk to Col. Glenn.

Q—W. did John Glenn do all the time up there?
A—He was very busy filling out one of those questionnaires on Communism that Sen. Thurmond gives to the Marines.

The Marine hymn has a new verse: "From the peds of Cape Canaveral to the shores of Tripoli, we will fight through all the gas and oil that are sold on N.B.C."

of friends and visiting the President's sailing father, Joseph P. Kennedy. Kennedy returned to Palm Beach from here.

After meeting at the Cape Canaveral air strip, Kennedy and Glenn set out on a tour of the spaceport.

The President and Glenn arrived at Launch Pad 14 exactly 3 days 1 hour and 36 minutes after the great adventure into space began with the roar of a 360,000 pound thrust rocket booster.

Freedom Array

The men who actually launched Glenn on his trip around the world were gathered in proud array.

Glenn stepped forward and praised them as "the best launch crew in the business."

After the brief stop at the launch pad, the party set out again while the launch crew with button popping pride applauded.

Glenn was beaming as he got back to home sod this morning.

When he arrived at the Cape he and Kennedy set off together on their tour of the place where Glenn's high adventure began last Tuesday.

To greet the President, Glenn had driven 18 miles from Patrick Air Force Base to this space center past the greatest crowd in the history of nearby Cocoa Beach, a cheering, applauding crowd estimated by police at 100,000.

It was at Patrick Air Force Base that Glenn was reunited with his family. While a happy laughing and proud crowd looked on, Glenn gave Mrs. Glenn a hug and a kiss and threw his arms around his two children.

Glenn, the joyous Maine lieutenant colonel who had flown around the world three times in four hours and 36 minutes, tucked his four hands and 36 minutes together and handed them from his pocket, and made a swift wipe at his eyes.

Glenn, accompanied by Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, arrived back in his homeland at 8:40 a.m. from Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas where he had been undergoing a debriefing since he landed back on earth Tuesday.

On the tour of the Cape area, the President and Glenn first stepped at Project Mercury control center.

This was the President's first visit to this space and missile center and he appeared to ask a number of questions about how this place, jammed with electronic consoles, worked.

For Glenn this home reunion by his admiring countrymen was only a taste of things to come. He is to be given a mammoth welcome in Washington Monday, followed by another in New York on Thursday.

Cheers Handclaps

Glenn was greeted by the cheers and handclaps of his co-nauts—and a host of kids who ducked and darted around adults for a glimpse of their space hero.

The astronaut's first words to the public after meeting his wife, children, parents, in laws, and relatives at the foot of the ramp to the airplane which brought him from Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas were: "I'm glad to be aboard."

That is a standard Marine Corps reply to a greeting when you are pleased to be where you are, when you are. And Glenn is a lieutenant colonel in that Corps.

He said the whole operation has been a team effort all the way in Project Mercury and that while he was receiving the acclaim it was only as a representative of those who had made the flight at 17,530 miles per hour possible.

Then he added that it is only a first step in a long program.

It has been estimated in the past that some 30,000 people, including 6,000 government scientists, engineers, technicians and their counterparts in industry, have participated in the Project Mercury operation.

After these few words, Glenn set out for the ride through brilliant sunshine to this space port where it all began—and his meeting with President Kennedy.

Preparedness of U. S. Troops in Berlin Is Shown

BERLIN (AP) — American troops rushed through the streets of West Berlin today in a dramatic demonstration of Robert T. Kennedy's pledge that the United States would defend this city against Communism as it would New York or Chicago.

About 1,500 men of the 2nd Battle Group 6th Infantry Division, along with their tanks, moved down to take up battle positions in the American sector of the divided city. Grabbing weapons, the troops set up machine gun posts at crossroads and dug in anti-tank positions while infantry patrolled the dark streets.

The U. S. Army said the two-day practice drill over before breakfast was designed to evaluate the unit's ability to react to various situations and called it routine. But it was significantly timed with the U. S. attorney general's visit here and his assurance to West Berliners that the full strength of American power will protect their vital links with the West against Communist encroachment.

"It showed trust, understanding and a type of pride on his part. The student body thanks him for this honor showed us."

helmet. The father and son were invited by Johnson to approach the Glenn car and were introduced to the hero of the hour.

This uncorked a mob which quickly encircled Glenn, frantic ally shaking his hand and patting his back and crying "well done."

Another stop was in front of the Holiday Motel where Glenn had lived intermittently during his training. There too the crowd closed in this one including waitresses, bus boys, dish washers and chambermaids.

Shortly after landing at Patrick Air Force Base, Vice President Johnson led Glenn and his family man Catholic priest in this county to a cluster of microphones. There they died Thursday at 102.

Johnson welcomed Glenn back to the United States and pointed out that two presidents of the United States had tried unsuccessfully to fanned frontier scout and Indian get Premier Khrushchev to coop fighter.

academy, an armed school and an officers' gendarmerie school. But for a time it had appeared that other army elements might back the mutineers.

The crisis forced leaders of all four political parties, including Inonu to sign a joint declaration pledging themselves to work to salvage democracy in Turkey. They appealed to the armed forces to avoid provocations.

Turning Point

The turning point came when the three armies which garrisoned the country from the Greek border to the Soviet frontier, announced they would take orders only from General Inonu.

There were no casualties reported in the uprising. But the movement of tanks and troops in and out of the capital plus the feeling, stirred by the affair, caused a public jolt which would take some time to overcome.

New Special To Feature Mrs. Kennedy

BY CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK — (AP) — NBC will now have its moments with the nation's first lady on March 28, the network will present "The World of Jacqueline Kennedy," and even now a camera crew under the direction of producer Eugene Jones is working in the White House.

The hour-long program, fifth in a series, will use still photographs, film clips and interviews with friends as well as film made in the White House to tell the story of the President's wife.

After CBS made its recently aired "Tour of the White House" the program was shared, at White House request, with the other two networks. With Mrs. Kennedy such a personal part in that show, one wonders if NBC will be able to hold onto its exclusive.

With filmed medical dramas—"Dr. Kildare" and "Ben Casey"—riding high in popularity, NBC will go one step farther presenting a series of specials showing real operating rooms with real surgery in progress.

The first "Breakthrough" special to be shown April 23 will consist of four heart operations on patients in four different cities.

All television networks will continue their intensive coverage of the man-in-orbit story from Lt. Col. John H. Glenn's meeting with President Kennedy to his press conference later on.

New Musical Planned By Merrick, Champion

NEW YORK (AP) — Director is far from perfect. David Merrick and producer are being reunited.

next season in creation of "Marathon," a musical based on June Haver's show business memoirs, "Early Haver."

Champion staged "Carnival" the current Merrick enterprise which won the Critics Circle Award as the 1960-61 season's best musical. The director recently completed preparation of a second company for national tour.

Sun Valley Saluted in TV Special

BY TV 800UT

6:30-7:30 (Channel 2) — Rawhide has nothing about the cattle drive this week, instead sending Rowdy (Clint Eastwood) off on a side-trip to collect some money. Before he accomplishes his mission, he has a few adventures with "Grandma" — a sweet little old lady who has a way with a knitting needle. Josephine Hutchinson plays Grandma.

6:30-7:30 (Channel 45) — International Showtime visits the Grande Cirque de Paris this week and the high spot is the Boughone Elephants. This act includes some girls who put a lot of faith in the beasts they allow themselves to be sat on. Stepped on, carried by the leg and neck, and so on.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 2) — It's Buzz to quit the Route 66 team — almost. He and Tod are working for a millionaire construction man in Phoenix, and Buzz is attracted to an ambitious girl executive (Patricia Batty). But all is far from perfect.

8-9 (Channel 11) — 77 Sunset

Strip has a curious story this week. Both Jeff (Roger Smith) and Kookoo (Edd Byrnes) are hired by girls to do some dating. And the two men, working separately, find themselves and parallel paths — a bit of romance and a bit of work which leads to a gun-running plot and dirty work on the yacht.

8:30-9:30 (Channel 43) — The Dinah Shore Show has a live hour of varied entertainment, highlighted by Vince Edwards' first singing-dancing job since he became famous as Be Casey. Another guest is Keely Smith. George Chakiris and Big Titty Little are other guests. (Color)

9-10 (Channel 11) — An odd combination of sports, music and comedy is offered by Westinghouse Presents with "Winter Carnival At Sun Valley." This was taped at the Idaho resort, and the excuse was a professional ski race. You'll see these mile-a-minute snow birds, but most of the hour is devoted to musical variety material, some of it given added freshness by the location. There is one particularly thrilling number — Gordon MacRae singing "Climb Every Mountain" perched on a platform from which you can see three states. Louis Armstrong and Roberta Peters also supply music. Jackson Carr is in charge of comedy.

9:30-10 (Channel 45) — Chet Huntley Reporting returns to the scene of an earlier program — almost. He and Tod are working for a millionaire construction man in Phoenix, and Buzz is attracted to an ambitious girl executive (Patricia Batty). But all is far from perfect.

Actor in 'Untouchables' Has 8 Lively Youngsters

But Family Life Runs Like Clockwork On Merit System and Duties for Each

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — One man on "The Untouchables" couple plus eight kids equals Robert Stack—but the rest of us don't. Not the way the Paul Picerni run their household.

You may think Paul is a brave of valor, with clusters for facing what he does every night when he goes home from the studio. Meaning Nicki 13, Paul Vincent (Peevee) 12, Gemma 11, Maria 10, Charles Philip (Ceepee) 8, Mike 7, Phillip 6, Gina 5. They span the eighth grade to kindergarten, missing only the seventh grade.

No Outside Help
Mothers would agree that Paul's wife Marie deserves even more medals for managing and feeding this one-family gang without any outside help.

They're pretty good kids, said Papa Picerni on a rare afternoon off from the TV series. Each of them has his own duties to perform.

We also have a system of merits and demerits. Merits are earned by doing something that pleases their parents above and beyond their regular chores. Ten of them are worth a dollar.

"On the other hand, 25 demerits are worth a trip to the woodshed where their father uses the leather strap. Come to think of it, there haven't been any trips to the woodshed lately."

The last one to make it was Mike, who prepared himself with 17 layers of underwear. He got five extra blows because of that.

The Picernis inhabit a rambling house which Paul expanded from two bedrooms to five. There's plenty of yard to run around in and a shelter for the house.

"It came last Christmas," Paul said. "I told the kids if they would raise $50 to buy a house, I would put up the rest. I never thought they would do it, but they did."

Teens Have Own Ideas On Issues

BY VIVIAN BROWN
Is the Twist a dignified dance? The pros and cons of that question rage on and on.

"My parents didn't approve of rock 'n' roll," writes an 18-year-old high school senior. "But now they dance the twist at every opportunity. Our own group disassociated itself from the Twist, and now to have our parents twisting around is a little embarrassing."

"Why is a dance like that okay for parents when the rock 'n' roll isn't permissible for their daughters?"

Many people consider rock 'n' roll undignified. Parents don't relish the idea of their young daughters tossed around on a dance floor creating a spectacle. That also goes for the Twist. Parents dance it, no doubt, because they feel they have the situation well in hand.

A 17-year-old takes exception to the school skirt length ban in this letter.

"Our school principal threatens to send home from school any girl who wears a short skirt after the first warning. Everyone knows the fashion is knee length skirts. If he's old fashioned, why doesn't he learn what it is all about? A group has been thinking of picketing the school but my mother says it wouldn't do any good. Have you ever heard of students picketing a school?"

"It's the Pause that refreshes" beams Harold Hartzheim as he accepts a glass of punch from his wife. Refreshments were served to the guests between dance sets. At right, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rummel, Kimberly sit out a dance at the Saturday night "Winter Holiday" dance at Knights of Pythias Hall. The hall was decorated with posters and table centerpieces representing countries popular with travelers.

A handful of the contestants made the right play on this hand but the same thing would occur in any, but the most expert field.

At almost every table South won the first trick with the king of spades and returned the ten of clubs for a losing finesse. East returned a spade to the ace and South plucked away at clubs until East took his ace.

The defenders could take only two spades and two clubs. South easily won the rest, making the game contract.

That's what happened. Any objections? Speak up now or for ever hold your peace.

Must Kill Dummy

If you were playing the hand you might not notice it. I didn't say you wouldn't. I just said you might not. East should see the importance of killing the dummy to stop South from using the long club suit.

When East takes his first club trick he must return the king of hearts. If declarer takes the ace of hearts there is no side entry in dummy for the clubs. East refuses one club trick and then goes back to spades. South makes two spades, two hearts, three diamonds and one club. A very respectable little haul but only eight tricks.

If declarer returns to the heart suit with dummy's ace, East should take to spades. Now the declarer has two spades, two hearts, three diamonds and one club. Just enough to defeat the contract.

It is to see the right play if South is a beginner. If you are a beginner, you should not play such plays most of the time. The case involves a bell to wake you up.

Daily Question

Patricia opens with one spade and the next player passes. You hold S 7 + H A 4 4 D 9 7 6 C K J 10 2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one no trump. The bid is not good enough for a response of two clubs. If you could see your hand suit at the level of one, however, you would do so.

Your Problems

Don't Criticize Birds, Bees, They Worked Fine for Mother

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a girl 13 years old. Last night my mother invited me into the sewing room and said in a quiet voice "I am going to tell you about the facts of life. Then she acted flustered and began to blush. I was pretty embarrassed because she talked to me like I was in kindergarten. She used flowers and pollen and bees as examples. I hope she would get around to people."

Landers

After a while she did get around to people and I must say she had some of her facts wrong. There are quite a few things my mother doesn't understand or at least she didn't explain them right.

My question is: do you think I should straighten her out or let her go on living with the mistaken ideas? Must know.

Dear Must Know: Your mother has probably mistaken all right with her "mistaken ideas," so don't shake her up by offering to educate her. It was good of your mom to want to give you the correct information. Her biggest mistake was the same one most mothers make. The thing was not she was about five years too late.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope we should consult an ophthalmologist to get our eyes checked out.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband used to be a very heavy drinker. With the help of our clergyman he straightened around. He has made a great deal of progress. Free drinks may seem like a generous move to the guy who is buying but he could be wrecking a man's life and undoing all the years of hard work. Please print this. It might help. — Wilma

Dear Wilma: If you think your letter in print will put an end to drinks in the house I have news for you.

Fox Cities Papermen Heading Home

Freer Trade Policy Favored After Week Of New York Talks

NEW YORK (AP)— Representatives of the paper industry headed home today after a week of conventions in which they hammered out a policy favoring freer trade.

The American Paper and Pulp Association Thursday issued a statement calling upon President Kennedy to take steps to equalize tariffs lest higher European barriers penalize American producers.

The 12 trade groups that make up the organization and allied industry organizations had discussed the question at length in Paper Week meetings scattered over a half dozen New York hotels.

Tax Revisions
A theme of many meetings was the role of government in the industry with calls for tax revisions to make modernization easier.

Also at the meetings Pulpwood producers studied the potential effects of demands on forest land for reservoirs, homes and education.

Trade organization after trade organization brought in reports of production that overrode last year's recession effects and predictions of continued upturns.

The A. P. P. A. elected N. D. Bardeen, Kahmaroo, Mich., president. The industry's technical arm, the Technical Association for Pulp and Paper Industries, elected Harold M. Annis, New York, president.

Electing Bardeen, president of Simpson-Lee Paper Corp., William H. Chisholm, Oxford Paper Co., R. C. Dohme, International Paper Co., and R. F. Erickson, Rayonier Inc.

Electing directors were Alexander Calder, Jr., Union Bag Corp.; William H. Chisholm, Oxford Paper Co.; R. C. Dohme, International Paper Co.; and R. F. Erickson, Rayonier Inc.

Past Linked to City's Future, Speakers Tell Pioneer Society

Mayor Mitchell Says Museum Needed as 'Showplace of Record'

The community's future, rather than its past, caught the attention of members of the Outagamie County Pioneer and Historical Society Thursday at the annual Washington Day program. Except for the familiar strains of "America, My God Be With You Till We Meet Again," the two songs that have opened and closed these programs for the last 90 years — it was not the usual day for remembering. Speakers Judge Gustave J. Keller and Mayor Clarence Mitchell linked talks with the past while looking to the future.

Judge Keller stressed the individual's responsibility to young people in helping make them good citizens. Time does not change some things, he said. What is right and what is wrong is the same today as it was 50 or 100 years ago. We live to impress youngsters that they must be guided by what's right and stay away from what's wrong to be good citizens.

Let George Do It
Rather than let George do it, everyone must be a George and stop being spectators in community life and become participants, he said.

As individuals we must adopt a constructive attitude toward our problems by doing something about them no matter how small the role we play, he urged. Young adults must realize they have a responsibility that can't be shifted to someone else, he added.

Mayor Mitchell in his discussion of the question "Does Appleton Need a Museum?" declared that such a building should be built for the future even though it properly emphasizes events of the past. "Certainly we need a museum," he said. "We owe it to our visitors and our neighbors outside the valley as well as to ourselves to have a showplace of our record." In favor of a new structure, he said it should not be a duty man's museum, but a place where the young can learn from the mistakes of the past. He said the museum should be located in a place where the young can learn from the mistakes of the past.

Pair Charged With Disorderly Conduct By Oshkosh Police

OSHKOSH — Two Oshkosh men who claimed another man owed them money ended up being charged with disorderly conduct by Oshkosh police Thursday.

Robert Burgett, 44, 1125 School Ave., and Alvin Markofski, 43, 26 N. Main St., denied the charge. His morning and County Judge Arnold J. Cane ordered bond of $200 each for March 27 trial.

The two men went to the police station Thursday evening and said they had been at the home of Adolph Beyerl, 614 Wagon Ave., to get some money he allegedly owed them and that he refused to pay and had threatened to call the police.

A short time later Beyerl called the police and asked to see an officer. He said he had paid Burgett's father the money and had never employed Markofski.

Burgett attempted to call Cverl while the police were at the latter's home and Burgett was ordered arrested. Markofski was picked up a short time later.

dence of a hard clear look at the future not more reverence for the past, he said.

The ultimate answer to the question he pointed out must come from all the citizens. Judge Keller emphasized the need for more attention to the young group of young people who either are working or going to college. The youngsters' parents, he said, have a duty to teach them the right way at school and in life. He said the youngsters' parents have a duty to teach them the right way at school and in life.

We must work with our kids to make them good citizens, he said. The good one are in the majority and we have a responsibility to these youngsters to protect them from harm and to protect them from people who would deceive them for dollar profit.

In the earlier part of his talk, Judge Keller outlined the changes in the court system since the time of the adoption of the state constitution. He noted the need of the courts that were in nearly every locality.

He pointed out that just as a municipal court was created for Outagamie County in 1907 by legislation, so were minor courts in other parts of the state as the various counties grew. Set to meet local needs, a great dissimilarity arose in the various courts as to their jurisdiction and operation.

The recent court reorganization act is an attempt to make courts throughout the state as uniform as possible. Judge Keller explained and thus Outagamie now has three branches of county court and its municipal court came to an end Jan. 2, 1962.

Regents Approve Experiment; Calling for Summer Sessions

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A pilot program of accelerated study at Wisconsin State College at Oshkosh that may lead to three year college degrees was approved by the board of regents of state colleges today.

Pres. Roger Guiles was authorized to launch a 12-week summer session this year for regular academic students that will supplement the normal eight weeks summer session after he and his faculty report on the results of the college and high school seniors in the Fox River Valley showing a strong interest in the 12-week term.

The Oshkosh experiment will be eagerly studied by other institutions of higher learning for what it may show about the possibilities of adding, truncating or changing curricula to handle vastly increased enrollments.

Classes Inevitable

Gov. Nelson has repeatedly said this year around classes, scheduled for state colleges and universities, will be inevitable because of the rapidly rising enrollment in the financial pressures that will be coming any day.

John Anthony Wronka, director of the Oshkosh faculty council, reported that nearly half of high school seniors in 14 Fox Valley high schools who planned to go to college reported a part that they are interested in doing a summer study opportunity during the summer period.

President Guiles said there is equally strong interest in the present college students and that the faculty is also interested in the program. Sixty of 100 students in the program will be full-time students in the fall.

Undergraduate Enrollment Doubles

UW Cutting Student Talent Waste, President Elvehjem Tells Alumni

"We are cutting down our talent waste in the state university and colleges," Conrad Elvehjem, president of the University of Wisconsin, said Thursday night at the Appleton Elks Club.

The educator spoke at the annual Founders Day banquet of the Fox Valley University of Wisconsin Alumni Association. Although undergraduate enrollment has doubled in the last 10 years at the university at Madison and Milwaukee, and the various centers and state colleges, these schools now are getting better students reflecting the top of their high school classes, he said. From this he concluded, capabilities for wise self government are being increased.

Appleton Student Wins Scholarship

Glenn Breitung, sophomore student at the UW Fox Valley Center, was awarded the alumni association's annual scholarship.

The honor is presented each Founders Day by a worthy center sophomore planning to continue his education at the university at Madison. Breitung son of Mr. and Mrs. William Breitung, 2917 Billard Road, intends to study in the field of electrical engineering.

years at the university at Madison and Milwaukee, and the various centers and state colleges, these schools now are getting better students reflecting the top of their high school classes, he said.

From this he concluded, capabilities for wise self government are being increased.

The state of Wisconsin, he noted, has an excellent record with 37 per cent of its college and university students making up the population of schools of higher learning in the United States.

Using the centennial of land grant colleges as the basis of his Wisconsin there are special challenges for the gifted student. Elvehjem pointed out that the challenges for the gifted student are the same as for the average student. The University of Wisconsin in the area in their respective fields must continue to shape its future. All knowledge, essentially, is one of the aims of the state university practical, he said. Philosophy always has been to be practical for the preeminently practical education, with the student just as chemist is practical in the budding sciences.

The speaker discussed two distinct fears people have about the university. The only thing the university fears is the loss of the school's focus, the extreme specialization, and its student body and the fact, he stated, but we can watch for the university is becoming broadening influences which are doing too practical and too science oriented.

Still Warm
The real race is knowledge. "The University of Wisconsin versus ignorance," he said, quoted. The completion of always has been an aim of every institution of higher learning. Using statistics, higher learning is the same as to prove his point. The current of the four original goals of the university of student to teacher is but a land grant colleges — liberty, justice, truth and peace. There is a new tide growing, people often forget that a university speaker said, noting that industry after all is a collection of industrial and foundation gifts and small schools.

He noted that enrollment in non-science areas is growing fastest in the area of there now is more federal and state colleges and stated that two available to institutions in the third of the instructional social science fields. The evening's program included learning have fewer than 25 student recognition and introduction of Dr. Victor F. Marshall on 1906.

Elvehjem said that 50 per cent graduate of the University of Wisconsin recent Nobel prize winners have been from land grant institutions alumni of the school.

Wisconsin Quint to Invade Wildcats' Court Saturday

Erickson Commends Play of Green Bay's Tom Highbanks

MADISON (AP)—The University of Wisconsin basketball team, dedicated to holding onto second place in the Big Ten, is under pressure from teams above and below as it heads into Saturday's meeting with Iowa North Western.

The Badgers will be watching the Ohio State, rolling along with 10 victories without a defeat, and the third place Purdue, which still has a chance to overhaul Wisconsin.

Nights Ohio State, while still winning, has not been in its best form and the Badgers would like nothing better than to see the Buckeyes trip while heading out on a Illinois victory.

Wisconsin's now mathematically odd chance for a crack at the title.

Purdue's Bolinmakers will be at Minnesota Saturday and a loss would reduce their chances of catching Wisconsin now riding in the standings in the spot picked for Purdue before the season started.

Low Burdette Comes to Terms

Four Pitchers, Two Outfielders Still Outside Braves' Fold

MILWAUKEE (AP)—The Milwaukee Braves' Low Burdette, usually a hard man to get to, came to terms Thursday for the 1962 season.

The 35-year-old, right-handed hurler, who will be starting his 11th season for Milwaukee, reached agreement in a telephone bargaining session with general manager and president Tom McHale.

There was no information on terms, but it was believed Burdette, who was $18,111 last year, will get the same salary as last season, an unlimited $50,000.

Burdette, the 32nd of 38 Braves to appear in 40 games in 1961, had an earned run average of 4.00, struck out 82 batters and walked only 37.

Anticipate No Trouble

Braves still to be signed are pitchers Bob Ruhl, Carlton Willey, Don McMahon and Don Nault, first baseman Joe Adcock and outfield candidates Len Cihra and Andy Lee. Spring training next Thursday.

McHale said he didn't anticipate any trouble in dealing with the players. "We don't want to be very far in the contract with all of them," he said.

Adcock has been in town, even as a couple of times. "McHale said I can say we are in for April. Bill is a hard man to control—no hunting or fishing—but he'll come in."

Bobcats Make Last-Ditch Bid To Share Title

Green Bay to Play 2 Weekend Games On Rochester Ice

GREEN BAY — Green Bay Bobcats make a last ditch bid for a share of the United States Hockey League title against the perennial champion Rochester Mustangs in the famed medical center this weekend.

Trading in two full games, the Bobcats are faced with the necessity of a sweep of the Saturday night Sunday afternoon games on ice where they have had little success this season to gain a title.

In two previous appearances at Rochester, the Green Bay Skaters absorbed 10 and 14-2 defeats.

Bobcats own a 4-2 edge in the season series. The Mustangs and Bobcats have split in four meetings on Green Bay ice, winning 4-0 and 5-2 and losing 7-3 and 7-2.

The Bobcats will have one thing going for them—an edge in manpower. Rochester will be missing

The state's oldest collegiate rivals Ripon and Lawrence tangle in a Midwest Conference basketball game at Alexander gym at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

This will be the 105th cage meeting between the two schools.

Lawrence on the brink of a winless conference season would like nothing better than to record a win over archrival Redmen.

Good Performances

The Vikings also will be out for revenge of an earlier 78-58 loss to Ripon. The Don Bova coached Vikings have come through with some good performances on their home court this season, battling right down to the wire with some of the top teams in the conference.

Ripon Coach Kermit Doe Wesske said this week. We aren't taking a thing for granted. We need this one and we're going to work for it just as if we were taking on a league leader.

Bova has been pushing the Vikings to the fullest extent in this week's drills.

Ripon currently has a 7-8 mark in conference play and is 9-4 for the season. The Redmen have won three of their last five games and the two losses have been on one and eight-point decisions. Ripon could finish as high as fourth place with triumphs in the last three games.

Carly Mevis, strong 5-6 sophomore center, has been one of the main reasons for Ripon's success. Late Mevis scored the winning basket over Knob last weekend.

Cardinals Pick Wally Lemm As New Coach

Houston Mentor Doesn't Know Who Aides Will be

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Wally Lemm, who has a flair for winning football, has been named head coach of the Cardinals.

Lemm has made his first year a work four times including last year when he directed the Cardinals to 10 straight victories and signed a one-year pact with the National Football League's St. Louis Cardinals.

Lemm has made his first year a work four times including last year when he directed the Cardinals to 10 straight victories and signed a one-year pact with the National Football League's St. Louis Cardinals.

In 1952, Lemm guided Lake Forest College to a conference championship. He then moved to the Montana State College in 1954 and won a Rocky Mountain Conference title. Wally returned to Lake Forest in 1977 and again won a title.

The World War II torpedero commander is a former assistant coach with the Cardinals and had three years with the Big Red. Lemm turned from sports writing and decided to become a coach in 1942 after meeting former Cardinal coach Jimmy Conzelman.

I admired the way Jimmy handled men. I had the 42-year-old Lemm, and I've tried to follow his pattern through my career.

The status of three incumbent Cardinal assistant coaches who shared responsibility in the final two games last season after Frank (Doc) Ivy resigned hasn't been cleared up.

Lemm said he wouldn't know whether Ray Prochaska, Ray Wilsey and Chuck Drulis would be retained until his coaches at Houston decided whether they wanted to leave that team.

He indicated a desire to bring Houston assistants Walter Schlunkman and Joe Spencer with him. With the Oilers Schlunkman was responsible for offense and did an outstanding job.

Lemm, who handled the defense at Houston, said he would assume overall control of the Cardinals and use a standard pro offense.

Utah Takes Sole Lead in 'Skyline'

Knocks Utah State Into Second-Place Tie, 78-76

BY JIM HACKLEMAN

Utah's Redskins are having quite a bit to do with the college basketball tournament picture, even though they've been penalized out of the post-season competition themselves.

Utah was rapped with a one-year NCAA probation at mid-season, barring the Utes from both the NCAA and National Invitation tournaments. Since then they've been concentrating on winning the Skyline title and, as a by-product, deciding which of their conference rivals goes to the NCAA and which goes to the NIT.

The Redskins took undisputed possession of the league lead Thursday night with a 78-76 victory at Utah State that knocked

The greatest one-man show of the tournament was staged Thursday by Dick Thompson, a 24-year-old Youngstown, Ohio, man, who employed steelworker Thompson, 17, as a spotter, to lead in regular singles of 24 field goal tries for 34 points, giving him a 718, the first over-700. Thursday's only addition to series of the tournament, his 504 in the post-season tournaments was Memphis State (11-5), which took an all-time berth in the NCAA. The Tigers will play Creighton in a Midwest first round game at a site and date to be determined.

Game Chief Outlines New Stocking Program

Smith's Plan Would Provide for Planting of Only Cock Pheasants

Plant-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — A fundamental change in the state pheasant stocking program to provide for the planting only of cock pheasants was outlined to the State Conservation Commission Thursday night by J. R. Smith, state game division chief.

A method of distinguishing the cock pheasant chicks as they are hatched has recently been developed, he said, and has led the division to decide to stock only males because there is little reproduction of the hens among the stocked birds.

But Smith said up to a third of the club-reared birds are now being stocked on non-public lands, in spite of the state's rule against it.

Without such inducements it would be difficult to persuade the local club members to invest their money and labor in pheasant rearing, he advised.

The cooperative stocking program now accounts for the planting of more than 200,000 pheasants yearly, and in most of the counties out of the southeast district, is responsible for most of the pheasants in the bag each shooting season.

AFL Admits Drafting 24 'Red Shirts'

DALLAS (AP) — The American Football League admitted Thursday that it had held a draft of collegians who are to graduate in 1963 but said there was no action secret about it and that it was perfectly legal.

A spokesman for the AFL said 24 so-called "red shirts" had been drafted and that they all had been previously drafted by the National Football League.

"The National Football League drafts more future players than we do because it has 11 clubs whereas we have only eight," said the spokesman. "The National Football League also has a better scouting system than we do because it has been in operation so much longer. It of course gets players we don't know about until the NFL drafts them."

"This is a supplementary draft in the regular one held last December. It is only a question of our trying to catch up in the drafting of players."

Game Chief Outlines New Stocking Program

Smith's Plan Would Provide for Planting of Only Cock Pheasants

Some doubts about a Smith proposal to experiment with a sharecropping system in pheasant stocking with some of the cooperating local sportsmen's clubs.

Under the plan, such clubs which contribute money and labor for the rearing of birds supplied by the state hatchery at the age of 10 to 12 weeks would be permitted to put a share of them on their own club preserves or other quasi-private lands, as reimbursement for their rearing costs. The others would be claimed by the state for stocking on the increasingly numerous public hunting grounds.

But Smith said up to a third of the club-reared birds are now being stocked on non-public lands, in spite of the state's rule against it.

Without such inducements it would be difficult to persuade the local club members to invest their money and labor in pheasant rearing, he advised.

The cooperative stocking program now accounts for the planting of more than 200,000 pheasants yearly, and in most of the counties out of the southeast district, is responsible for most of the pheasants in the bag each shooting season.

Fox Cities Area Heart Deaths Over Average

Higher Percentage Dies in 4 Counties Than in Rest of U. S. From That Cause

The percentage of deaths from heart disease in the four counties, Fox Cities area, is higher than for the U.S. as a whole or for the east north central states.

In Outagamie County, according to the official figures, heart disease is responsible for 57.1 per cent of all deaths.

In Winnebago County the figure is 59.5 per cent, in Calumet County, 63.3 per cent and in Waupaca County, 62.4 per cent.

All these percentages are greater than those reported for the United States as a whole. The national figure is 54.9 per cent. The percentages also are above the 56.8 per cent ratio in the east north central states.

Sanders, Two Others Tie for Tourney Lead

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Now let's don't start something cooking like New Orleans might be a lucky spot for Doug Sanders, who seems to have picked up right where he left off last year in the $30,000 Greater New Orleans open golf tournament.

The 29-year-old, short-swinging Sanders recorded a four-under-par 68 to tie Ed Oldfield and Ellis Jr., for Thursday's first round lead.

"No, I don't consider this a lucky spot for me, and I certainly don't! And this course a soft touch," he said after turning in his first round scorecard, "I'm just putting a lot better and playing more."

Behind the top three as the second round opened today were holding in a dual, control car besides shot rookie Phil Rodgers of Lafayette, La., and veteran Bo Win-

USSR Has Been Working Long on Rockets, Charlie's Research Shows

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

POTPOURRI — Russia may be ahead of us in the space race, but they will have to acknowledge that they really started work on rockets as early as 1813.

It is a fact.

Sir William Congreve (1772-1822) a British inventor and artilleryman invented the rocket as early as 1800. He created a cylindrical tube which contained a mixture of nitre, sulphur and charcoal. When the base of the cylinder was ignited, the rocket was launched.

Among other places, the Congreve rockets were employed at the battle of Leipzig with considerable success. Although lacking accuracy they threw the French into confusion and were largely responsible for the victory.

The Czar of Russia was so interested that he requested some "samples of the rockets." Then as a gesture of appreciation he made Sir William a Knight of the Order of St. Anne.

Game laws aren't new, either. At least one was enacted to prevent the Israelites from despoiling entire nests. The law perhaps the first to be found in Deuteronomy XXII 6, reads like this:

"If a bird next chance to be before thee in any tree or on the ground whether they be young ones or eggs, and the dam sitting upon the young ones or eggs thou shalt not take the dam with the young but you shall in any wise let

Stock Average Off Slightly

Trading Moderate With Some Losses On Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Savings and loans responded to favorable news by rising against the trend of a falling stock market early this afternoon. Trading was moderate.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off 60 at 259.90 with industrials down 1.50, rails down .30 and utilities up .10.

Elsewhere in the list the pattern was of fairly general retreat except for utilities which held their own on balance. Steels, motors, rails, chemicals, electronics, aerospace issues, tobacco and drugs were generally lower. Oils over a point. Radio Corp. took a similar loss in the electronic sector. Farm implements edged higher.

Sunbeam started a couple of points.

Brunswick, International Nickel, Woolworth, Avco and American Machine & Foundry were among the losers.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was off 5.40 at 707.42.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds were mixed. The aerospace issues gave ground with Boeing down well. U.S. government bonds advanced.

4-Point Drop

A 4-point drop by Du Pont was a major depressant to market averages.

Losses of more than a point were taken by Chrysler and Ford General Motors eased.

The aerospace issues gave ground with Boeing down well. U.S. government bonds advanced.

No Time Had He

Vanderbilt heard of the successful test and he quickly wrote to Westinghouse setting a time for an interview in his office.

Westinghouse sent the letter back to Vanderbilt with a message — the identical one — written on the bottom of the letter: "I have no time to waste on a fool."

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My married daughter is under the influence of a former registered nurse who lets her own children run around half naked. Her babies are kept in the playpen—wet to their waists, barefoot and wearing diapers only. The youngsters are always having colds and ear aches. She fills them up with aspirin and penicillin and the poor kids are full of medicine. I have known some wonderful mothers who were registered nurses and admired them but why do we have to have crackpots like this one?—MRS. S.J.

I don't know why it's too bad isn't it? Frankly I'm not wed to the idea that children should be bundled up too heavily. Some people, I'm afraid, seem to have the idea that the way to keep Johnny well is to wrap him in as many clothes as he can manage. This may do harm. Get a child all sweaty from too much clothing, and then he's going to be more sensitive to a chill from a draft. And while we can't positively prove that such chilling is harmful, my observation convinces me that it probably causes a temporary lowering of resistance.

Moderate Clothing

Therefore I say that light or moderate clothing is perfectly all right for children in mild weather or in a warm house. In really hot weather a minimum of clothing is comfortable and adequate. But in anything but hot summer weather I certainly favor more than just a diaper—a shirt, at least. And when children are old enough to stand I think it is better for them to wear shoes if for no reason other than to keep them from stepping on things that might hurt them.

About letting children remain wet—most certainly NOT. It is neither sanitary nor comfortable for the child and it isn't good training for him either. The results of the situation you describe should be evidence enough to convince your married daughter that she should not let before Wednesday's deadline, but I'll leave this pattern with her own inability to visit the office during normal day hours.

Times must be paid Wednesday to avoid penalty charges. The business office is open from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. daily except Saturday.

Kimberly Treasurer Sets Hours for Tax Payments

KIMBERLY — The city clerk treasurer will hold special office hours tonight for the convenience of persons wishing to pay taxes before Wednesday's deadline, but I'll leave this pattern with her own inability to visit the office during normal day hours.

Savings and Loans Increase Holdings

MADISON, AP — Wisconsin saving and loan associations increased their total assets during 1961 by $186,721,922, R. J. Winkowski, saving and loan commissioner for the state, reported today.

The total on Dec. 31 came to $1,469,781,178, for the 114 societies chartered and 40 federally chartered associations. Winkowski noted.

The total mortgage loans showed an increase of $30,064,719. The figure on Dec. 31 was $1,614,941,722.

Winkowski noted that the savings and loan industry has become more resistant to the virus of a darker future. We must guard against not just our own sake but for everybody's. Correct does used only when need arises are the only ones we have of preventing loans from becoming resistant.

NOTE TO ALL — These small broken veins are quite common. They are called "spider veins." They tend to come and go. The cause is not known but there is no infection whatsoever with cancer. The best thing is to forget about them.

Fewer Seasonal Workers Needed, Government Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Department of Labor predicted today that agriculture's need for seasonal workers this year will decline from last year, largely because of further mechanization.

A farm labor report said unemployment rates in agriculture last year were higher than for the labor force as a whole. Agricultural unemployment averaged 9.3 per cent compared with 6.7 per cent for the whole labor force.

The report said that during 1961 total farm employment averaged 7 million, including 5.1 million family workers and 1.9 million hired. Total employment was 2 per cent lower than in 1960.

The report said plans for further mechanization for vegetables—chiefly potatoes, tomatoes and lettuce—suggests that higher production levels can be achieved without significant increases in the number of workers employed.

Margarine Fat Hurts Arteries, Expert Declares A widely known scientist contends that polyunsaturated fats (from margarine, vegetable oil products) build up deposits in the walls of arteries. The expert is Harold H. Williams, head of the department of biochemistry at Cornell University. He said studies show that vegetable fats lower cholesterol but they also leave deposits in arteries. This is quite contrary to the claims of many followers and the magazine advertisers. These people were described well in a recent talk by W. Henry Schrell, Jr., Director of the Institute of Nutrition Sciences, Columbia University. Nutritional quacks are making money and endangering the nation's health because of the public's lack of real knowledge in the field. Means must be found to let people have the facts about what constitutes a balanced diet and how this relates to overall good health. About 400 sows will be artificially inseminated during the next eight months, other sows in the same herds will be bred to the farmers' boys. Then pigs from both natural and artificial litters will be compared for various health characteristics and weight gains. Results of the project will not be available until 1963.

Others Taking Part Also cooperating in the tests are Agricultural Extension specialists at the university, county agents in the counties concerned the Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing Cooperative and the Swine Breeding Research Cooperative. The major aim of this project is to gain the information and experience which will be helpful in establishing a commercial artificial swine breeding organization which will work successfully under field conditions. The program will provide service from superior boars and serve as a testing ground for new university research findings in swine artificial insemination.

Trees Available For Planting MADISON — Wisconsin land owners who want to plant trees this spring will find ample supplies on hand from state forest nurseries. Ted Peterson, University of Wisconsin forester, points out that the demand for trees has fallen off in Wisconsin as the soil bank program has declined. The Conservation Department which had expanded the nursery program to meet the demand — now has a big supply of trees. You can get trees at cost price whether you have a small wind break in mind or an entire plantation. Further information can be obtained from district forester Ron Herman in Appleton.

Improve Woodland For Wildlife Habitat

BY COURTNEY SCHWERTZ
Outagamie County 4-H Club Agent

Most farm woodlands can be improved as wildlife habitat by adding a number of durable brush piles which will serve as cover for cottontail rabbits, ruffed grouse and bob white quail. Several moderate-sized brush piles 1 to 3 feet in diameter and 3 to 4 feet high located near the or hollow butt section of a log for a base. Pile larger limbs onto the base tepee fashion to insure adequate space under the pile. The pile should then be topped off with smaller branches and limbs.

A brush pile built in this fashion will provide safe shelter for wildlife for a number of years before it finally rots down and is no longer serviceable.

Leave Trees

Another wildlife practice that makes woodlands a better home for wildlife is to leave one or more dead trees per acre in the woodland. Dead trees are the finest homes for gray squirrels and may also be used by owls and possibly woodpeckers if suitable water is nearby.

Large crowned oaks and other nut trees located on the woods edge should be spared from cutting. These trees frequently produce heavy crops of nuts and acorns, assuring wildlife a abundant food supply.

The shrubs in the woodland usually produce berries of

$155 Paid for Top Chest at Chilton Sale

CHILTON—A Seymour man, Ronald Nelson, paid the top price of $155 for a single consignment to the combined Northeastern Wisconsin State Chester White Sale held Saturday at Calumet Arena here.

Nelson purchased a Chester White bred gilt consigned by Paul Lager, Brownsville. The top priced Chester White boar was consigned by Chester Home Farms, Waterloos, and purchased by Marvin Garner, Rochester.

In the all breed sale which preceded the Chester White sale, the high bid for a gilt was $140 by Tom Haege, Fredsville, for a bred and encouraged boar of Hampshire consigned by Donald H. Bennett, Chilton. Walter Kamin, Weyauwega, consigned the top boar, a Duroc, which was purchased by Joe Fulton, Black Creek, for $82.00.

Average selling price for bred gilts in the all breed sale was $116 while the Chester White gilts averaged $111. Boars in the all breed portion of the sale sold for an average of $83 and the Chester White boars averaged $80.00.

But the most important function in cutting down wind velocities in the forest should therefore be to maintain and encourage the use of the forest and to wildlife.

State Farmers Set Records

More Conservation Work Done in 1961, Than in Years Past

Wisconsin farmers established a new state record last year in planning and installing conservation measures through their 71 locally controlled and locally administered county wide soil and water conservation districts. This announcement was made today by M. F. Schweers, Madison State Conservationist for the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

All counties in Wisconsin are soil and water conservation districts except Menominee. The SCS carries out its work with farm families primarily through districts, Schweers commented.

Highlighting record accomplishments for 1961 was the 860,000 acres of soil surveys, the best previous year being 630,000 acres.

Other attainments for the year in rounded figures with grand totals to date in parenthesis included 2,200 new SWCD cooperators (42,000), 2,100 basic conservation plans (28,000), 500 plan revisions and 8,000 follow-up contacts.

Among practices were 50,000 acres of contour stripcropping (1,070,000), 720 miles of terraces, diversions and surface drains (16,000), 1,300 acres of grassed waterways (16,000) and 27,000 acres of pasture renovation (340,000).

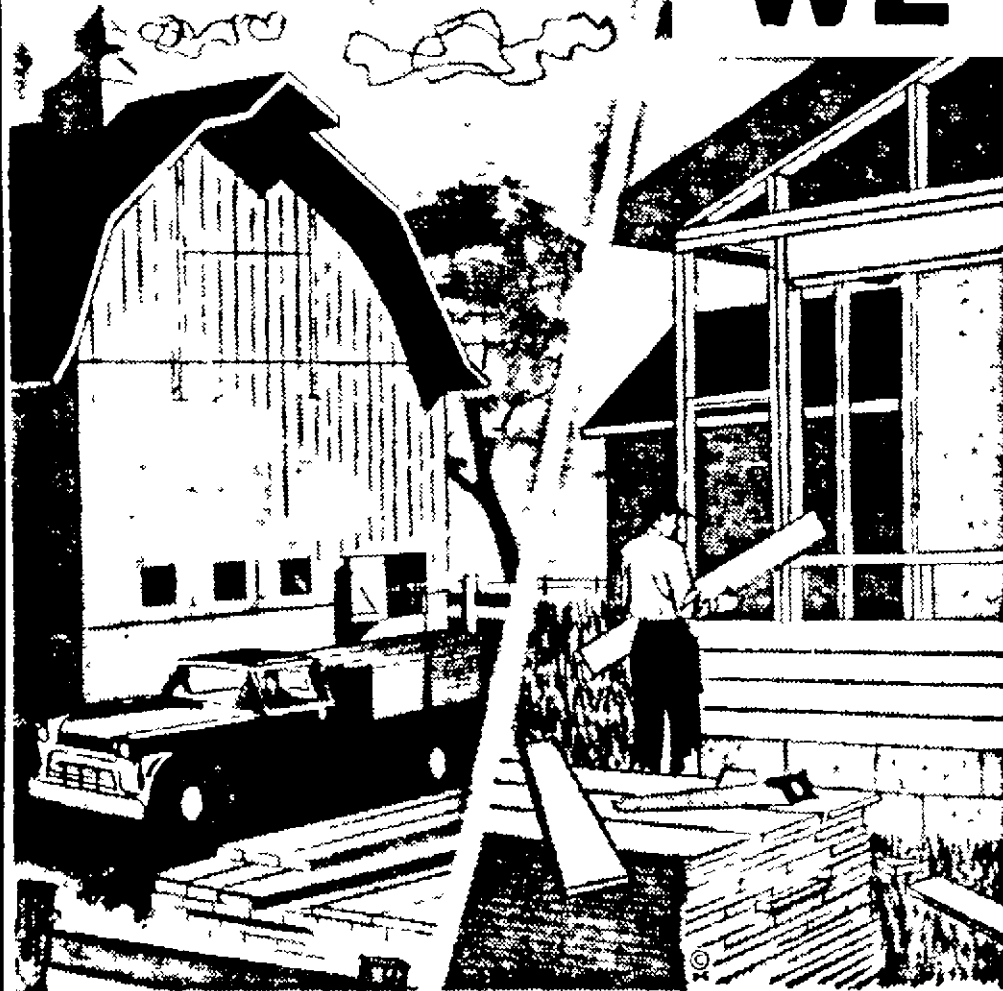

Woodland practices included protection from fire and grazing, 21,000 acres (620,000) woodland improvement, 3,600 acres (130,000) and tree planting 8,300 acres (99,000). Technical assistance on the latter two practices was provided largely by Wisconsin Conservation Department personnel.

Fish and wildlife habitat improvement included 10 miles of streambank protection (110), 225 ponds (1,800) and 5,000 acres of wildlife area protection (51,000).
